

Educators PDC 2015 $500 Ann Arbor Ypsilanti

Earn Your
Permaculture Design
Course (PDC)
Certificate

Permaculture design is decision making, critical thinking, and problem solving protocols based on the patterns expressed in nature.

It joins high science and appropriate technology to meet local needs in all aspects of society from economy to waste management, food and water security to city planning and education.

On the second Saturday of each month we'll gather in Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti to learn the skills needed to bring our communities into a local sustainable future. The course will last two years- each session will be 4 hours - to fulfill the 72 hours required for the PDC. Designed for Michigan educators, parents, and community organizers, with SCECHs & undergrad/grad credits available, this course is perfect for anyone interested in the potential that permaculture has to offer.

Lead by Jesse Tack & C. Milton Dixon with additional teachers Zeal Chen, Nathan Ayers, Bridget O'Brien, and Kristin Kaul.

See our website at <http://goo.gl/hka04n> or call 773.789.8887 for more details & to register.